ECO-CITY SUMMIT

On Saturday, May 10, 2008 the EPC (with assistance from Virginia Tech's Urban Affairs & Planning Program in Alexandria) will host a public forum to review Alexandria's first-ever Eco-City Charter at the new, green T.C. Williams High School. The Charter outlines guiding principles for the City's environmental vision. You and your neighbors are invited to comment on the Charter, which the EPC will review and submit a final draft to the City Council for consideration in June.

The Summit will feature Mayor Robert "Bob" Harvey from Waitakere, New Zealand – a pioneer in community sustainability. Local elected officials, City businesses and civic organizations will participate and be available to hear your ideas and share their strategies for a sustainable Alexandria.
