

STOP THE SPREAD OF COVID-19

TESTING IF YOU DON'T HAVE SYMPTOMS

Not all healthcare facilities offer COVID-19 testing for individuals without symptoms. The following organizations will test people without symptoms, whether it is for travel, after an exposure, or other purposes. Call or book an appointment online before going to any facility.

Testing provides information about one point in time. Since COVID-19 can take between 2-14 days to incubate, AHD recommends waiting about 7-10 days after a gathering, travel, or close contact with someone positive with COVID-19 before you get tested. Stay away from others while you wait the 7-10 days to get tested to avoid potential exposure to others. You may also become exposed or develop COVID-19 after your test, therefore, a negative test result doesn't mean you should stop wearing a mask or maintaining 6 feet of physical distance from those who don't live in your household.

If AHD has directed you to quarantine for 14 days because you have been exposed to someone with COVID-19, a negative test result does not allow you to end the quarantine period early.
