Court Data Promised Unit on Delinquency

William W. Wingate, chairman of the Council on Law Enforcement, announced that a unit on delinquency would be established. The proposal was set in motion by the Council's determination that the city's juvenile problems could not be solved by continued failure to control them. Under the plan, a model delinquency bureau would be set up to handle cases of juvenile delinquency in an organized way. Full-time court function would be provided, and a Torrington County Juvenile Probation Office would be established.

Federation Candidates Introduced

Harriet S. Alberson, president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, introduced Federation candidates for the city council. The candidates were:

Delinquency Rise Seen By Bureau

One out of every 8 young people, or a total of 4,479 children, were held in juvenile court last year. This is an increase of 139 over the previous year. The bureau was established to handle cases of juvenile delinquency in an organized way. Full-time court function would be provided, and a Torrington County Juvenile Probation Office would be established.

General Dean to Arrive Here Tuesday for Pentagon Talks

General Dean was expected to arrive Tuesday for talks with department officials. He was expected to discuss the problems of juvenile delinquency in the city. The bureau was established to handle cases of juvenile delinquency in an organized way. Full-time court function would be provided, and a Torrington County Juvenile Probation Office would be established.
