

Legacy of George Floyd:

Documenting Alexandria's Response

Peaceful vigils, protests and other events took place in Alexandria during the first week in June, following the May 25, 2020 death of George Floyd. Recognizing the importance of this moment in history, the Office of Historic Alexandria invites the community to share signs, t-shirts, flyers, photographs, journals, personal stories, and artifacts that document our community's response.

Share your stories about living or working in Alexandria during these events:

- How has the death of George Floyd and the subsequent national and local events affected your life and that of your family?
- Did you participate in the peaceful vigils, protests, marches or other events in Alexandria?
- As a resident of Alexandria, were you moved to join the protests in DC?
- Do you have signs, flyers, artwork, objects or photographs that can help us document our community's response?

Please note that at this time we are only collecting images of objects to be considered for possible future acquisition.
