

April Alexandria Mobility Plan Newsletter

In February and early March, the Alexandria Mobility Plan project team was busy conducting focus groups to delve into what residents from across the City think about mobility in Alexandria – particularly around our streets and how we encourage alternatives to driving alone.

We heard from high schoolers to seniors, persons with disabilities, working parents, and members of the business community about their transportation experiences, mobility needs, and what they want to see come out of this planning effort.

Thank you to all of those who participated, both in-person and online. We heard a lot of common themes and some great innovative ideas – a summary of which you can find on the document library of our website. We received valuable feedback from participants who appreciated the focus group format as they do not usually attend public meetings.

We will be conducting another round of focus groups from April 20 - May 1 on transit and parking and other curb-side uses. These will all be online in a forum where you can participate at your convenience. If you are interested in participating, please fill out this form by April 13, so we can try to ensure that we have diverse representation.

If you are not selected for a focus group, you can still share your ideas on the main page of our engagement page or via email at mobilityplan@alexandriava.gov .

After these two rounds of focus groups, we plan to hold broader public events to report what we heard and get feedback from the community before we put together the draft plan.

Please help us expand the reach of the Alexandria Mobility Plan and share these project updates with your neighbors!
